LOWER CAR LICENSE FEES URGED BY A.M.A.

Lower motor car licenses in Alberta have been urged upon the provincial government by the Alberta Motor Association. Decision to make this request was made at the annual meeting of the organization in Calgary last December.

Under wartime conditions and with fuel and tire supplies restricted, the motor association contends that motorists are entitled to lower fees.

Due to gas rationing, many motorists who formerly drove 20,000 miles a year, now are down to 8,000 miles. For the duration of the war, it is evident that mileage will be curtailed.

The top price for an Alberta car license is $35, while $25 is the average. In view of rationing regulations, it is contended that these license fees are entirely too high.

Another reason for lower licenses is that the government has been unable to maintain highways as formerly, due to such work being hampered by lack of materials and manpower. Consequently, money that should be devoted for highways could not be used for that purpose, even if the present scale of licenses were maintained.

WARN CAR DRIVERS OF DEADLY GAS FUMES

Deadly monoxide gas continues to take its toll of lives, despite warnings issued to drivers by the Alberta Motor Association and other organizations.

In the last few weeks reports have told of at least two deaths from this form of poison in various parts of the country. Some narrow escapes have also been reported.

Motor club officials stress the need of being on guard against these deadly fumes. Now this is all the more necessary, when older cars are being driven to a larger extent on the highways.

Under winter conditions, also, it is advisable to be particularly on guard against monoxide fumes. At this time of the year there is a natural tendency to keep all car doors and windows closed. This is just the thing to do to harbor monoxide gas. Make sure that fresh air is getting into the car. When the car is started up in the morning, be sure that a garage door is open. Such steps serve to counteract possible fatal results from monoxide.

The Canadian Pacific Railway's department of natural resources at Calgary is completing arrangements to sell at auction some 375 head of purebred cattle from its demonstration farms in Southern Alberta. It has been decided to disperse the herd of 250 head of Holsteins at the company's Strathmore farm, and another 125 head of registered Aberdeen-Angus cattle on the C.P.R. farm at Coaldale, near Lethbridge, because it is felt that the purpose for which these herds were set up and developed, namely, the improvement of breeding stock in Western Canada, has been fulfilled.

HEALTH INSURANCE PLAN FOR CANADA

The Canadian federation of agriculture has recently issued a competent and comprehensive review, dealing with the urgent need for a national health plan for Canada. Following the presentation of their principles for national health insurance to the federal department of health, the Canadian federation of agriculture had this pamphlet prepared for the information of the public. Due to the fact that a health insurance bill will be introduced at the forthcoming session of parliament, this pamphlet will receive perusal by all thinking Canadians.

Entitled "Health on the March," this pamphlet bases its principles definitely on the democratic viewpoint. It is urged that the federal government assume leadership to formulate a national health programme, which will foster around national economy, and by a scheme of regional planning to work out a proper distribution of all health personnel, hospitals and other services to cover the whole country. Other principles advocated are the setting up of an independent administrative commission at Ottawa; that under it there should function in each province a provincial commission, with representation from all economic and occupational groups, so that finance, labor, agriculture, welfare and others will assume their proper function; that the cost of the whole scheme shall be paid out of the federal treasury; that all citizens be entitled to the services offered, and that these shall be based primarily on the promotion of positive health and the prevention of disease, to attain a higher standard of health for all Canadians. The last two principles show the functioning of health centres, from which the work of the general practitioners will radiate, their important preventive work co-ordinated with all the community being the driving force which shall assure the success of the programme.

These follow enlightening summaries of the admirable health insurance measures in New Zealand; that in Britain, which cover its whole of that immense land with a complete system reaching all of the people, and lastly, a brief picture of the present situation in Canada as it affects various groups and professionals in the health field.

The Canadian federation of agriculture asks that the public become alert to its responsibility to see that legislation for national health insurance ages will become reality.

ACKNOWLEDGES QUILTS

20-Lawn Road,
Stafford, Staffordshire,
England, Dec. 8, 1942.

To the Ladies of the United Church, Blairmore.

My Dear Ladies: I am writing to thank you for the beautiful quilts which my hostess received. I am an evacuee from Rangoon, my name is Brian Tinian and I am thirteen years of age. Owing to the evacuation of my school on June 1st, 1940, to Stafford, I came here, finding it quite a different place from Rangoon. The address at which I am staying is 20-Lawn Road, Stafford, which is a short-stay hotel for evacuated school children. It is very nice here, and the lady who owns the "Shorts" Hostel, Mrs. Mirans, is very kind to us.

I am going to see my mother and father, who are at Blackpool, Lancs. I have a brother who is working in Stafford at the Express and Star office. It is a paper firm. He is 16 years of age and used to attend the same school as I am attending now. The name of my school is St. George's Central Selective School.

I shall hope to hear from you in the future. This, I am afraid, is all for the present, so, thanking you again for the quilts, and wishing you a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year, yours truly,

BRIAN TINNION.

SINGLE MEN REQUIRED TO REGISTER BY MARCH FIRST

Single men, required by a recent proclamation to register under the military call-up, must comply with the order by March 1st in order to put themselves in good standing with these regulations, Mr. Francis J. Lote, manager of the local employment and selective service office, stated this week. They may register at employment and selective services offices, or at mobilization board offices or post offices.

Only single men who have not received notices to report for medical examination under the military call-up, and who were born in 1902 and the following years up to and including 1923, must report, Mr. Lote said, pointing out that men who did receive their notices, and who as a result were medically examined by personal physicians, are not now required to report.

To clear up further any confusion about the exact definition of the men who must report by March 1st, Mr. Lote stated: "The term single man includes any man who was unmarried at July 15, 1940, whether he has since been married or not; also, any man who was a widower, or was legally separated or divorced at July 15, 1940, and who had no dependent children at that time, or who, if he had a dependent child at July 15, 1940, no longer has a dependent child or children. It further includes all men who have become widowers, or were legally separated or divorced since July 15, 1940, and who now have no child or children dependent on them. Any of these men who did not previously receive notice to report for medical examination, must register by March 1st."

Many men at present in the Armed Forces did not receive notices to report; obviously these are exempt from the order, Mr. Lote said.

Since the issuance of the proclamation which requires this registration by single men, twenty-three men have reported at the local employment office, it was stated, and twenty-five men have also reported through the local post office.

DEBT ADJUSTMENT ACT

APPEAL DISALLOWED

The Privy Council disallowed the appeal of the Alberta government against the decision of the Supreme Court of Canada, that the Alberta Debt Adjustment Act was ultra vires. The reference to the Supreme Court of Canada followed the disallowance of the act by the Supreme Court of Alberta. The Alberta government was supported by the governments of Saskatchewan and New Brunswick in the appeal to the Privy Council. Pending the receipt of the text of the Privy Council judgment, no decision has been made by any of the three governments on what action they will take. It is expected that the provincial governments will introduce legislation at the 1943 sessions replacing the act, as some form of protection for farm debtors is almost essential.

Show Revised Estimate Of The 1942 Wheat Crop

Ottawa.—The Dominion Bureau of statistics sliced 22,500,000 bushels from its first estimate of Canadian wheat production of 1942 but still left the total the highest ever recorded—562,700,000 bushels.

The first estimate of the crop issued in September placed it at 615,200,000 bushels. This figure was cut by 15,000,000 bushels in the second estimate made in November. The third estimate of 562,700,000 bushels compares with 315,800,000 bushels in 1941.

The bureau said all the latest reduction occurred in the prairie provinces where 1942 production now is estimated at 565,000,000 bushels.

It placed the gross value at the farm of all field crops produced in 1942 at $1,165,778,000, an increase of $401,858,000 over 1941. The grain crops, principally wheat, accounted for most of this increase.

An area of 60,809,200 acres was used in 1942 for production of the principal field crops, an increase of about 4,000,000 acres over the total in 1941.

The third estimate showed little change for the coarse grain production, also a record-making total in 1942.

Although the third estimate brought wheat production for 1942 under the 600,000,000-bushel mark, the bureau said the crop remained the largest on record, challenged only by the 567,000,000 bushels produced in 1928 and 540,000,000 bushels in 1940.

Fall wheat production, mainly in Ontario, was estimated at 23,400,000 bushels or about 56 per cent greater than in 1941.

The record-making wheat crop was produced at an acreage smaller than in 1941 but was grown on land assisted by the ideal growing season.

The third estimate of the oats crop was 632,000,000 bushels compared with 304,000,000 produced in 1941, while barley production was placed at 259,000,000 bushels compared with 111,000,000 in 1941. The rye crop of almost 25,000,000 bushels compared with about 12,000,000 in 1941 and flaxseed production in 1942 totalled 45,000,000 bushels, a large increase over the 1941 harvest of 5,300,000 bushels.

POINT RATIONING

This Plan May Be Adopted When Meat Is Rationed

Ottawa.—"Point rationing"—something new for Canada—is in prospect if rationing of meats becomes necessary, informed sources said. Meat rationing is believed to be a probability in the near future.

It may be applied at the same time as similar proposed rationing becomes effective in the United States, probably next March 1, and place both countries on a similar footing in respect to the meat supplies they are sharing with others of the United Nations.

"Meat" covers a variety of products, including beef, veal, lamb, pork and fowl. Under the point rationing system proposed in the United States, each variety of meat is given a value of a certain number of points. This means a pound of good steak and a pound of some other variety of meat might have totally different point values.

From the allotment of points given him under the rationing system, the buyer would make his selection, with the expenditure of points as well as of money kept in mind.

Canadians probably will receive their new issue of ration books, replacing those expiring March 6, during the last half of February and the first week in March.

PEAK PRODUCTION

Britain Plans Increased Output Of War Material This Year

London.—Capt. Oliver Lyttleton, production minister, told the House of Commons that 1943 would be the peak year of British war production and that the total labor force employed in munitions would considerably exceed the 1942 figure.

Further concentration of industry, further withdrawal of labor from less essential industries and a further mobilization of women would be required, he said.

The plan for 1943 provides for increased emphasis on the manufacture of ships, aircraft, anti-submarine devices, tanks and certain specialized types of army equipment, with the result that there will be transfers of labor within the munitions industries themselves, he said.

BUTTER SHORTAGE

Rations Cut By One-Third For The Next Six Weeks

Ottawa.—Canada's butter ration for the next six-week period will be cut by one-third to maintain the butter supply during the season of low production and to ensure equitable distribution, the prices board announced.

Instead of three pounds of butter, each Canadian up to the end of February will be entitled to buy only two pounds.

The prices board indicated the cut will be restored, if possible, in March. It was estimated, unofficially, the saving in butter accomplished during the next six weeks will be about 8,000,000 pounds.

The reduction is accomplished by elimination of two of the six "space C" ration coupons which were to be used to the end of February.

BECOMES BARONET

But Resident Of Callander, Ont., Does Not Want Title

Callander, Ont.—An 83-year-old resident of Callander was notified that he has succeeded to a hereditary baronetcy in England. He is Henry Felix Jervis-White-Jervis, and takes the title of his brother, Sir John Jervis-White-Jervis, who died at his home in England.

The new baronet has lived in Callander for 40 years. He says the title doesn't mean much to him and that he prefers to remain plain Mr. Jervis. The title was created in 1798 for an ancestor who served under Lord Nelson, as a reward for gallantry, in action.

FINANCE PROBLEMS

Manitoba Finance Wants Implementation Of The Stavros Report

Winnipeg.—Premier Stuart Garson said that implementation of the Stavros report would be necessary immediately after the war "if the problem of public finance is to be solved satisfactorily."

He did not name the other provinces.

RATIONED GOODS

Will Be Shipped To The North Country From Edmonton

Edmonton.—Officials of the Edmonton ration office of the prices board disclosed that a shipment of 39,000 pounds of rationed commodities will be shipped soon to the north country, where for the most part ration books are unknown.

The shipment will include 5,400 pounds of butter, 29,400 pounds of sugar, 2,600 pounds of coffee and 2,550 pounds of tea. The ration office has issued a special purchase permit for the supply and it will be sent to Catholic missions, boarding schools, trading posts and to Indians and Eskimos associated with these points in an area ranging north from MacMurray to the Arctic ocean.

The shipment will go first to MacMurray and from there will be divided and sent by dog team, plane, boat or sled to remote destinations.

Ration books are a novelty in the north country but the ration is well-known. Traders and other retailers in remote areas who secure supplies in large quantity act as unofficial local ration officers, doing out the restricted commodities within ration limits to customers.

LABOR FORUM

A New Executive Committee To Be Set Up

Ottawa.—A tentative agreement that the National Labor Forum would be reorganized and carried on as a joint undertaking of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, the Workers' Educational Association, the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada and the Canadian Congress of Labor was reached at a meeting of the executive of the National Labor Forum.

A new executive committee, on which the two labor congresses will be represented, is to be set up. The CBC also will be represented and two other members will be appointed by the representatives of the four organizations involved.

Consideration is to be given to appointment of a general secretary to supervise the broadcasts, working in conjunction with the member bodies of the forum.

National Labor Forum is broadcast every Wednesday over the national network of the CBC.

Drummond Wren, general secretary of the Workers' Educational Association, said in a statement that the association decided to withdraw from the National Labor Forum program because of changes he said had been made in script material submitted by the association.

The CBC then announced the executive committee of the forum would meet CBC officials in Ottawa to discuss the withdrawal and to consider plans for strengthening forum organization and obtaining more effective liaison with organized labor.

CHILE LINES UP

South American Country Has Quite A Sizable Navy

Ottawa.—Dr. Eduardo Grove, Chilean minister to Canada, expressed his "profound satisfaction" and "pride" that his country had decided to seek an alliance of economic and cultural relations with the Axis powers, and said Chile's action "practically means a state of war."

Prime Minister Mackenzie King, advised of Chile's decision, said in a message to the minister that the Canadian government knows it "will strengthen the bonds of friendship and understanding which unite the northernmost democracies of the Americas."

Dr. Grove said he expects his country will begin to convoy its ships carrying supplies to ports on the Gulf of Mexico. If they come across an enemy U-boat, he said, he does not think Chilean ships "ill hesitate to engage them, even if war has not been actually declared."

The Chilean Navy, Dr. Grove said, is "quite an effective one" with a 32,000-ton battleship, two cruisers, 12 destroyers, and seven submarines.

Chairman of the western board has not yet been appointed.

Defence headquarters said any soldier who thinks he has officer qualities can apply to his superior officer for permission to be sent to one of these centres. Even though the commanding officer may not himself favor the application, the applicant will be entitled to have it sent forward to the selection board for consideration.

The new program, in charge of Brig. Howard Kennedy, deputy adjutant-general at defence headquarters, applies to the selection of young men to qualify as officers in the Canadian army and to take the officers' training course at either Brockville, Ont., or Gordon Head, B.C.

Hitherto candidates to fill the monthly quotas for the officers' training course have been selected by defence headquarters from nominations forwarded from every district which, in turn, come from the recommendations made by commanding officers of active units or of advanced or basic training centres, the commanding officers of reserve units or the officers commanding Canadian officers' training corps in the universities.

At the officers' selection centres candidates who have been recommended or have applied for commissions can meet a selection board. Both the candidate and the army will have the benefit of experience of the board members in connection with the task of selecting men to qualify later as army officers.

The selection boards will be presided over by senior officers of wide military experience. Other board members will be officers commanding of all branches of the service, having knowledge of the requirements of their particular branch or service.

Importance Of National Health Is Pointed Out

Ottawa.—Importance of maintaining the health of the civilian population as well as that of the armed forces was stressed in a meeting of some 50 medical men from all parts of Canada, representing the Canadian medical procurement and assignment board and its advisory committee.

Sitting in with the doctors for the opening of the conference were Defence Minister Ralston, Air Minister Power, Labor Minister Mitchell and Pensions Minister Mackenzie.

"The armed services just can't take everything," said Col. Ralston. "We must remember and take care of the civilian population. It is important that we have a healthy nation. In your work you will survey the whole health phase of national life."

The procurement and assignment board's function is to arrange the selection of medical men for the armed forces so as to interfere as little as possible with civilian medical service and to make sure that physicians who are needed either for service personnel or for civilians.

The board appointed 12 field secretaries to work with its divisional advisory committees. They included: Sqdn. Ldr. I. M. Cleghorn, M.D. No. 10, Winnipeg; Maj. W. A. Clarke, M.D. No. 11, Vancouver; Flt. Lt. D. B. Stewart, M.D. No. 12, Regina, and Sqdn. Ldr. R. M. C. Clare, M.D. No. 13, Calgary.

A New System For Selection Of Army Officers

Ottawa.—The defence department announced a new system for selection and development of potential officers for the Canadian army, based on close and expert study of each candidate.

To carry out the plan, officers' selection centres will be set up in eastern and western Canada. The announcement said that Brig. W. W. Foster, now in command of Military District No. 6 at Halifax, will be chairman of one of the eastern selection boards.

Chairman of the western board has not yet been appointed.

Defence headquarters said any soldier who thinks he has officer qualities can apply to his superior officer for permission to be sent to one of these centres. Even though the commanding officer may not himself favor the application, the applicant will be entitled to have it sent forward to the selection board for consideration.

The new program, in charge of Brig. Howard Kennedy, deputy adjutant-general at defence headquarters, applies to the selection of young men to qualify as officers in the Canadian army and to take the officers' training course at either Brockville, Ont., or Gordon Head, B.C.

WORLD'S GREATEST
ARMADA DEPICTED

Unleashing the pent-up power of the United Nations, the convoy that opened the campaign to drive the Axis from North Africa, was described as the greatest armada the world has ever known. Included in this huge congress of shipping were seventeen Canadian corvettes, built in Canada and manned by ratings of the Royal Canadian Navy.

First complete motion picture of the geopolitical front is "Pioneers on Axis Europe," now released in the Canadian Cities. On series, issued by the national film board. Opening with a montage of seige canons of astounding size used by the Germans in their drive to the Russian Caucasus, "Pioneers on Axis Europe" depicts the assault on French North Africa and Tunis, to link up with the British 8th Army driving upon Tripoli from the east and reaches a logical conclusion in the large-scale bombing raids on Italy.

Observers flying in the protective umbrellas spread above the gigantic convoy called the mass movement of ships, men and material the most astonishing sight ever seen from the air. Vessels of every type and tonnage, supply ships, transports, liners, battleships, aircraft carriers, swarms of destroyers, corvettes, and mine-sweepers filled the horizon.

Past the headland of Gibraltar's Rock ancient Greeks called the Pillars of Hercules, assault craft landed on beaches in advance because of hard sand needed to give traction to charging tanks. Running under the guns of French-held ports of Casablanca, Oran and Algiers, American troops overcame resistance by bewildered Vichy officials. After ten action-filled days, British and American armored columns were converging on Tunis and Bizerte.

Enveloped by the lightning thrusts as the first wave of allied might rolled aside resistance, surprised members of the Axis armistice commission were captured in the occupation of Casablanca. Like Himmler's "tourists," these German and Italian locusts had already begun to pick the bones of lands conquered without struggle.

The secret had been well-kept. Rumors planted in neutral countries led the German high command to believe an offensive was planned through Norway. To bluff the Axis, outifts of Arctic clothing were issued and the Nazis began frantic efforts to build up Norwegian fortifications. Even when the great convoy moved up through the sea Musolini once boasted was an Italian lake, D.N.B., the official German news agency, claimed the ships were intended to reinforce Malta.

Timed to initiate the opening phase of the nut-cracker movement, General Montgomery's British 8th Army breached Rommel's minefields around El Alamein, taking 75,000 prisoners. The ensuing German retreat resembled a rout, as the tough British desert-fighters swept them back. Tobruk — hot potato of the Libyan war — Derna, Bengasi, El Agheila fell in turn as the broken Axis forces stumbled toward Tripoli. Calmly despatched by their Nazi commanders, Italian soldiers surrendered faster than the advancing British units could herd them ward the rear.

The pincers have closed on Nazi-land Europe. To the north the Russians are swinging shut the paw that lingers upon Stalingrad and the approaches to Rostov and the Caucasus. Victory in the desert has clinched the other half of the pincers, bitten deep into the underside of Europe, much-coveted in Hitler's geopolitical pipe-dream.

Four airmen were talking about absentmindedness the other day. "You know," said one, "my brother is so absentminded that he went to get on his bicycle and fell off because it wasn't there."

"What about my brother?" chimed in the second. "He was so absentminded that he put the cat to bed and shut himself out for the night."

"That's nothing," replied the third. "My father once struck a match to see if he'd blown the candle out." And then the fourth piped up with: "Well, my grandfather was so absentminded that he put his cane to bed and stood in the old shack on Rowdy Street."

BOB EDWARDS' EYE OPENER

Bob Edwards' Eye Opener, the first weekly paper published in High River, about thirty-eight years ago, carried the following items in one issue:

The last issue of a busted paper in Pumpkin Centre of Squaw Hollow had items reading like this:

John Boon, the laziest merchant in town, made a trip to Bowden yesterday.

John Doyle, our grocer, is doing poor business. His store is dusty and dirty, and we don't like the cat that sits in the prune barrel.

Died. Simeon Calmont, aged 60 years, died this week. He was an ill-natured cuss with an eye to the boodle. He came here in the night with another man's wife and joined the church and lodges at first chance. He owes us several dollars for the paper, large bills at the grocers and butchers, and you could hear him pray for six blocks. He was buried in an asbestos-lined coffin and his many friends threw palm leaf fans on his grave, as he may need them. His tombstone will be a resting place for owls.

Last Sunday morning at 8:45, R. D. Colquette, well known "Neighbory

TRY AND BEAT IT

You have frequently heard those high-sounding phrases: "Nothing Matters Now But Victory," "Don't Waste—Save This Envelope," and others of a like character. Well, we got a "dilly" in the mail last Thursday from the Provincial Tax Commission informing us that our Education Tax ledger showed a debit balance of 1¢ made up of a shortage in remittance on Bill return. We were instructed to remit amount by return mail. As a brilliant example of government inefficiency nonsense, red tape or extravagance this takes the sanguine cake. Mind you, it required a stenographer's services, a printed sheet of letter paper, a 3¢ postage stamp on an envelope that was worth another cent, to tell us that we owed 1¢ for education tax on our 1941 account. Wonder who the sleuth accountant was? He might be better employed in the army.—Shaunavon Standard.

Mrs. Oliver, wife of the late Hon. Frank Oliver, minister of the interior in the cabinet of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and founder of the Edmonton Bulletin, is dead at the age of 79.

An old Frank woman who thought every living person should be in the army, came upon a boy milking a cow. "Why aren't you at the front?" she blurted out.

THE FINANCIAL CROWD

The name of Roosevelt has long brought thoughts to the minds of veterans Wall Streeters. Trust-busting Theodore Roosevelt was no more popular with members of the exchange than is F. D. R. today.

When "Teddy's" rifle on shoulder, left for the African jungles in 1909 to hunt big game, the financial crowd did not let his departure go unnoticed. On every wall of the exchange huge signs were posted. They read:

There passed away in Calgary on Thursday last, following a lengthy illness, Mrs. Alice Mutz, widow of the late Albert Mutz, of brewery fame, at a ripe old age. Born in Brizingen, Germany, she had resided in Calgary for twelve years. She is survived by three daughters; three sons, including Max; Albert, of Seattle and formerly of Vulcan; one sister, Mrs. George Scott, of Raven; two brothers, Max and Ernest Fry, and six grandchildren. The body was cremated.

REG'LAR FELLERS—A Neat Job

A Tough Life

United States Wartime Restrictions Are Being Felt

John Q. American is awakened by an alarm with a frog in its throat. He'd like to throw it out, but knows he must put up with it for duration. Turning on radio, he's cheered by news about Jap defeat until static comes in. Then he remembers he's old age. With a blanket-blank, one hero throws back sheet that's getting thin, blanket that is innocent of wool, rises from his pillow that never housed a feather. He turns on a leaky shower with a squeaky faucet—that woman plumber wasn't so good—and tries to work up a lather with a thin bar of soybean soap. That's us—U.S.—in wartime. But cheer up, there's more—and worse to come! (John Q. American—1943 Model, Eagle Magazine.)

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

JANUARY 31

JESUS THE BREAD OF LIFE

Golden text: Jesus said unto them, I am the bread of life. John 6:35. Lesson: John 6:1-14.

Devotional reading: Psalm 63:1-8.

Exposition and Comparison

The Feeding of the Five Thousand, John 6:1-14. Jesus is the Source of life—this is the thought at the close of the fifth chapter of John: Jesus is the Substance of life; he is the thought of the life with which he imparts it.

One day Jesus crossed over to the eastern side of the Sea of Galilee, hoping to have a quiet time with his disciples on the hills. There was a crowd of people Galileans on their way to the Passover at Jerusalem, drawn by the report of Jesus' power over disease, followed by foot around the northern shore of the lake. Jesus saw the crowd and came to meet him. Seeing the on-coming crowd, Jesus turned to Philip and asked him where bread could be bought for them all. Jesus said to Philip, "Don't you have any bread?" Philip said what to do, John informs us. Philip was a practical man of affairs and he made a hasty calculation: It would take at least two bushels of barley, a bushel worth of bread, he declared, to give everyone even a little. The margin of our Revised Version explains that the Greek word translated as bushel means a basket, a basketful, a basket containing grain, a basket containing a coin worth about 17 cents in our money. One denarius was the pay for a day's labor.

Another brother of Peter, remarked that there was a lad among those who had five barley loaves and two fishes—but what are these among so many?" he exclaimed. The emphasis was on the word "many" but He saw the poverty of the visible supply; he failed to see the richness of the invisible Power.

At Jesus' direction the people sat down on the grass, to the number of 5000 men besides women and children according to Mt. 14:21. They sat in companies of fifties that the distribution might be quickly made. Taking the barley loaves in his hands, Jesus offered thanks, probably he repeated the customary words, "Blessed art thou, Jesus our God, King of the world. We beseech thee to send bread to come forth from the earth."

Jesus distributed the loaves and the fishes till all were supplied, then he told his disciples to gather up the broken pieces which remained over, that nothing be lost.

He would not approve of such waste, as was formerly to be seen in our households. And they filled twelve baskets full.

The people who witnessed "the sign" said, "This is in truth the prophet that cometh into the world."

AUTHOR MAKES REPLY

Alexander Dumas could never understand why writers and actors should be called upon to perform gratuitously at parties they attended: One night at a dinner at Madam Aubernon's, the great French author was sitting next to a famous general, when his hostess whispered to him, "Why do you not tell the general some of your witty stories?" "Mon Dieu, madame," replied Dumas in suave tones, "every man to his own trade. I was just waiting for the general to fire on a cannon."

CHANGED THEIR MINDS

SANDS OF HAZARD

By J. B. RYAN

CHAPTER IV.

JACK STOREY returned to the desk of Captain Lebeau. "What is it now, monsieur?" he asked irritably. "I had expected to be finished with your business, but you have come back again." "But I did not really expect that girl to be Annette Fournier." He cleared his throat. "Now, suppose you tell me about the street brawl. You killed that girl, didn't you?"

To deny the charge would be to shift the blame to Annette, giving the authorities the excuse they needed to sent her to the guillotine. So Jack Storey said, "Yes, I killed him."

Captain Lebeau listened to the story that followed. The meeting with Andri Ribot, and the warning given Storey by Andri; how Mohammed had been sent to Sheik Ismeddin and was told by Ismeddin and his entourages,

"Why should Monsieur Ribot wish you harm?"

"I do not know," admitted Storey.

"Indeed, it is the fact that I am on my way to Libya. If Ribot is the German agent Miss Fournier suspects, he would be headed in the same direction. Perhaps he felt that if he would accuse him, the French would realize his designs and report him to the French authorities in time to spoil his plans."

It still remained to be proven that Ribot is not what he claims to be, that captain remained earthy. "I fear Monsieur, that you have been less truthful than Mademoiselle Annette. My men checked up on your movements last night. No, they were in the cafe of Amar ben Yusufi remembers seeing either Monsieur Ribot or Sheik Ismeddin there. There were however, two other Berbers in the cafe, house with whom you quarreled and whom you followed out into the street. A score of witnesses, Monsieur, have sworn that this is true."

Jack Storey had been convinced by the possibility of a frame-up. Either the townsmen of Ain Saifa had testified falsely through fear of the redoubtable Kahri, or Andre Ribot, acting to delay the man who wanted to kill him, now that the attempt to kill the American had failed—had bribed everyone from Amar ben Yusufi down.

Captain Lebeau spoke to the officer-biologist Storey. "Bring in Sheik Ismeddin." And Storey's brows went up at this indication that the Berber chieftain was about to confront him.

IMMEDDIN, the Lawless, Sheik el Kahri, bowed and stepped out of the tent and turned his arrogant countenance toward Storey. "This man is mine, Sidi el Rouni," he inquired harshly.

"Patience, O Sheik!" said Lebeau.

"This is a French court, and French law—"

"I know only one law!" Ismeddin cut in. "The law of the Prophet! I demand redress for the death of Mustafa in the name of my tribe."

"I storey," Storey said, "I am of Mustafa. It is my duty to punish him. The people of Ain Saifa would accept my decision, but you, Ismeddin, are a man who respects the ways of the foreigner. However, I am well acquainted with Islamic law. Would you accept a judgment based on those grounds?"

"Sheik el Kahri nodded, but his eyes remained filled with suspicion and distrust.

"Sidi Storey regrets the death of Mustafa," said Lebeau. "It seems that he mistook Mustafa for a robber. To you, Sheik el Kahri, in leu of Mustafa's next of kin, Sidi Storey would make no demands, according to Sheik Ismeddin law.

Electricity is considered an essential part of civilized existence, yet in Alberta, with tremendous power resources, there are very few farms provided with electricity. In Sweden 50 per cent of the agricultural area is electrified, and in the United States about 40 per cent. Manitoba has a workable scheme to bring electricity to the farms of that province. It is about time that Alberta woke up. —Pincher Creek Echo.

"The More We Are Together, The Merrier We'll Be"

THUS goes the jolly song of the Good Fellowship Brotherhood. Plain simple folksy words, but much truth is embodied in them. Unless we hang together much community prosperity is lost to Blairmore. Consider the printer; he is doing his part in helping along his home town by buying as much as possible here; yet much of the work he can handle goes outside.

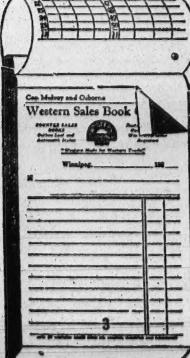

No benefit is derived from giving work to outside firms who come around selling you printing. You pay as much for the work; you have to wait longer for it; you have no chance to examine it until the finished work comes along with the bill; and then there is the expressage to pay over and above the straight price.

Compare this with the service of the local printer. Show him what you want and he'll give you a definite price. You know exactly what the work will cost before it is touched. Then you can make minor changes, etc., before the final printing. Delivery is made promptly, too—and nothing is charged for the service.

All in all, you stand to gain by letting the local man handle your work. And do not forget that his active support is behind you and your business.

"For your friends are my friends,
And my friends are your friends,
The more we are together,
The merrier we'll be."
